Ric Lewis, Executive Chairman of Tristan Capital Partners, said: "I think it's important for me to be a role model and a trailblazer. The real estate industry does not have enough diversity, whether that's by gender or ethnicity or background, and it's a priority for me to demonstrate that the industry can be inclusive. It is a great honour to be recognised by my peers by winning the ULI European Leader Award and it will spur me on to even greater action – I feel like I'm just getting started."

Shortlisted candidates were selected by the ULI European Leadership Awards Jury, which includes leading ULI Europe members. Each nomination for the award was judged on the basis of: vision and leadership; capability of driving innovation in real estate; history of sustainable business models/projects; contribution to the reputation of the industry; commitment to the community; and service as a role model for younger generations.
